Subject: Update and CrewSense Explanation

Hey Team,

We have made a video to update everyone and also one to explain the overall plan and process that we are using to eventually move the entire department away from the antiquated software known as SunGard or Naviline.

The Crewsense or Sungard explanation is a little lengthy so I apologize for that. Let us know if there is anything we can do for you. Great thing ahead for us. Thanks for making our department and city great.

New Public Art Program to be Unveiled in the Rose District
Local artists' work beautifies unsightly utility boxes

Broken Arrow, Okla. (6/14/17) – Utility boxes are a standard part of the scenery in any large city. These boxes house important electrical components that power traffic signals, street lights and other infrastructure around Broken Arrow. BA is now joining cities like St. Louis, Minneapolis and Los Angeles in turning these utility boxes into works of art.

“Broken Arrow has long been a community that supports art,” said Mayor Craig Thurmond. “We have a great Performing Arts Center that attracts national shows, one of the state’s most active community theaters performs right here on Main Street, and local organizations host many events highlighting the talents of our visual artists. This new art program is a wonderful new public-private partnership that will further allow the arts to flourish in Broken arrow.”

AVB Bank, First National Bank of Broken Arrow and Thurmond Consulting donated funds to pay for art installation at the following locations:

- N. Main & E. Commercial Street
- S. Main & E. Broadway Avenue
- S. Main & E. Dallas Street

While private donors sponsored the installation, the Broken Arrow Convention and Visitors Bureau paid the artists’ fees for Austin McCullough, Bailey Partain and Janet Skates. See attached artist bios for more information. Kryptonite Kustomz, a Broken Arrow based business, produced the vinyl artwork for the utility boxes.

WHAT: Unveiling of utility box art in the Rose District
WHEN: Friday, June 16, 3:00 p.m.
WHERE: Main and Broadway

Broken Arrow Public Art Program

Artist Bios

Austin McCullough is a proud father and self-taught tattoo artist based out of Tulsa. He has been professionally tattooing since 2005, when he was twenty-three years old. He is a very well rounded artist in just about every style of tattooing there is. Tattooing has taken Austin all over the country, allowing him to work with several different artists and pick up several different techniques. He graduated from Tulsa Central High School in 1999. Austin has earned numerous awards from tattooing at conventions over the years and has also had some of his work featured in a few magazines. He is currently tattooing out of Mi Familia Tattoo Studio.

A graduate of Broken Arrow High School, Bailey Partain is currently studying Art Education at the University of Central Oklahoma. She grew up making art her whole life, beginning in elementary school. She has competed in events like “Chalk It Up” (several years in a row), exhibited at the Tulsa State Fair and helps her church’s youth group with art projects. Bailey says art has been a way for her to open up and express to people what she loves. She plans to become an art teacher, wherever the opportunity takes her, because she wants others to love art as much as she does.

Janet Skates is a full-time artist painting abstracts, animals and commission works. She operates her studio in her hometown of Broken Arrow, where she grew up developing a passion for color and texture. Her love of nature is what inspires her many paintings, and it’s a process that is guided by intuition and exploration. Her medium of choice is cotton canvas with acrylic paints. Janet believes in the power of art to make people happy and bring joy to the observer. She also enjoys giving back to the community by volunteering with nonprofit groups, such as the Museum Broken Arrow, ARTSOK - the Regional Arts Alliance of Broken Arrow and Keep Broken Arrow Beautiful.

BAFD Receives Grant for Auto-Loading Cots

Power-LOAD Systems will reduce injury risk for workers and patients

Broken Arrow, Okla. (6/16/17) – The Broken Arrow Fire Department has received a $120,000 Assistance to Firefighters Grant from the Federal Emergency Management Agency for the purchase of six Stryker Power-LOAD Systems to be installed in the department’s front line ambulance fleet. The Power-LOAD System lifts and lowers the cot into and out of the ambulance, reducing spinal loads and the risk of cumulative trauma injuries. The Power-LOAD system also improves operator and patient safety by supporting the cot throughout the loading and unloading process.

“The addition of the auto-loading cots will be a great benefit to both our firefighters and our citizens,” said Broken Arrow Fire Chief Jeremy Moore. “The cot systems provide a greater level of security to the patients, while eliminating back and lifting injuries for our firefighters. We’re honored to receive federal funds to help us add these cots to our department.”

The Power-LOAD cots will reduce the risk of injuries for both EMS personnel and patients. It will also minimize delayed scene times due to loading patients on stretchers who exceed the EMS crew’s ability to lift the stretcher into the ambulance.

The total cost of the equipment is about $132,000. The City will pay the remaining $12,000, plus the $6,600 it costs to install the cots. The City’s portion of the funds will come from the fire department’s sales tax fund.
